

Self-Assessment

When you think of what it means to live a magical life, what comes to mind? What does living a magical life look, sound, feel like? What does it involve? How would you know if you were living a magical life?

What are the obstacles that keep you from living a magical life? Are these external forces, such as being too busy with work? Or are they internal in that you don't think that you could make your life magical?
